Unemployment Pay Extension Given Approval

BY UNITED PRESS

The House Ways and Means Committee voted 14-7 today to expand unemployment compensation by an amount estimated at one to two billion dollars.

President Eisenhower had urged Congress to extend the period of unemployment benefit payments. But the committee action went far beyond his recommendations. It would provide:

—10 weeks of federal benefits for persons who exhaust their state unemployment payments.

—Payments to workers losing jobs not now covered by state unemployment compensation.

The President had decommenced an emergency 50 per cent extension of the period in which benefits are now paid to persons covered by unemployment compensation. This extension would range from a few weeks in some states to a maximum of 15 weeks in others.

The administration did not recommend benefits for persons not covered by the unemployment compensation program.

The committee program calls for federal grants whereas the administration had recommended financing of the extra benefits by loans which the states would repay.

Rep. John F. Byrnes (R-Wis.) led an unsuccessful fight to knock out the provision for payments to workers not covered by the present program.

He said this provision "goes be-

Zhukov Retired From Active Duty

MOSCOW (UP)—Former Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov has been retired and now has no military duties, it was revealed today.

Zhukov was ousted as defense minister last November. Since then, his occupation has been a mystery.

Russia Says Pre-summit Talks Speeded

By WHITMAN BASSOW
United Press Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW (UP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said today the Soviet government has begun diplomatic exchanges with the Western powers in an attempt to shorten the distance to a summit conference.

However, U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson said the current Western talks with Gromyko are not the start of summit negotiations. "These talks did not constitute the start of negotiations as envisaged in our note," Thompson said, referring to the joint Western note of April 16.

Gromyko's said in his statement that the talks did not mean the Soviet union had accepted the Western view on how summit talks should be prepared.

He made the statement after conferring separately today with French Ambassador Maurice Dejean and British Ambassador Sir Patrick Reilly. Gromyko conferred Thursday with Thompson.

Replying to foreign correspondents' questions, Gromyko said the purpose of the talks was to "seek ways of shortening the distance to a conference of heads of government and eliminating the obstacles that stand in the way of such a conference."

Dejean, the last to talk with Gromyko, said he left the Foreign Office: "The real talks have not begun."

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had asked the Western powers to begin ambassadorial talks in Moscow this week. The "Big Three" agreed and Thompson saw Gromyko Thursday.

It still was not known whether Gromyko was balking at the conditions laid down by the West—that the talks be secret and that the envoys actually discuss East-West differences rather than merely set the time and date of a foreign ministers' conference.

Until today's developments Western diplomats believed they were winning their initial victory in the prolonged negotiations. They had hoped Russia was convinced of the value of secret diplomacy over letter writing.

Dejean was the only one of the three Western envoys to comment after his 25 minute meeting with Gromyko. He said only there had been no written note from the Russian.

The British envoy met with Gromyko for 45 minutes today.

The chief issue between East and West was still this:

"The Russians demand a summit conference regardless of whether any of the issues have been ironed out in early negotiations." The Western powers do not want to commit themselves to a summit talk unless most of the issues have been resolved.

Youths Remind Grabel Is Top Magic Show

Members of the Youth Center would like to remind the public that the Lee Grabel Show is no cheap magician's show.

It is a full scale stage review that has played in nine foreign countries as well as all forty eight states. It will bring to Hope over one hundred thousand dollars worth of stage equipment.

Some members of the Youth Center have seen this show and it is everything that it is built up to be. Mr. Grabel is acclaimed the "World's Greatest Living Magician," a title which could not be publicized if it were not true.

Tickets are being sold as cheaply as possible in order to insure the sponsors and the show some small profit. Please buy a ticket or two if the kids call on you.

The young people are reminded that tonight at 8:05 the Youth Center will broadcast its first Friday night Record Hop over KXAR, directly from the Youth Center.

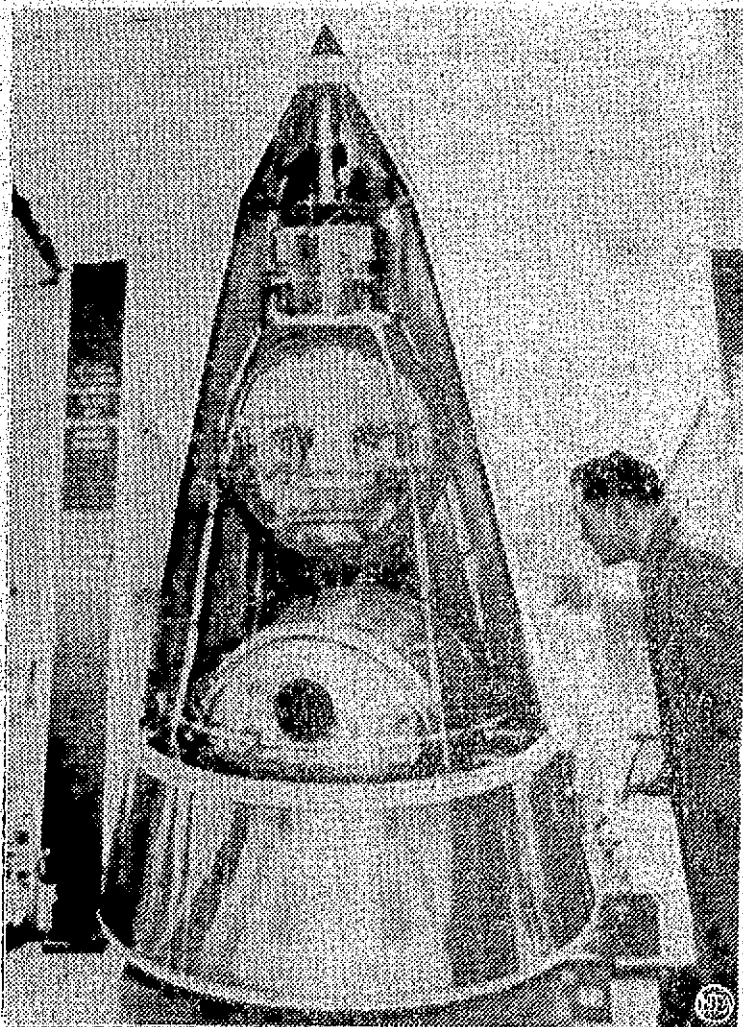

Broadcasting will be done by teenagers and the music will be played back to the Youth Center for dancing. Mary Ann Hall is in charge of records for this week. Jimmy Allen will work with Mary Ann's group in broadcasting the show and Barry Hall will do the engineering chores.

U. S. Newsprint Consumption Declines

NEW YORK (UP)—Newsprint consumption in the United States declined in the first quarter of this year, the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. reported Thursday.

Newspapers reporting to ANPA used 1,184,936 tons of newsprint in the first three months of 1958. That was a drop of 5.8 per cent from the amount consumed in the same period of last year, the association said.

The total estimated newsprint used in the nation in the first quarter of this year was 1,569,454 tons. That compared with 1,606,305 tons in the similar period of the previous year.

Last month, ANPA said, reporting newspapers used 434,865 tons or 8.3 per cent less than in March, 1957. The estimated total U.S. newsprint consumption for last month was 573,319 tons, compared with 612,089 tons in March, 1957.

Defense Against Missiles 'Seems Feasible' Now

WASHINGTON (UP)—William M. Holaday, Defense Department missiles director, said today it now "seems feasible" to develop a defense against long range ballistic missiles.

He said that work on anti-missile defenses "is being pushed to the extreme limits of our technology."

In an address before the annual convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Holaday said missiles are no longer considered the "ultimate offensive weapons," as they once were pictured.

"They lack flexibility, and a defense against them seems feasible," he said.

Holaday said missiles have already supplanted anti-aircraft guns on machineguns as aircraft armament, and the day is in sight when they will take the place of free-falling aircraft bombs and short-range interceptor planes.

But he said the end of long-range manned bomber "is not in sight."

Holaday vigorously denied any "lag" in U.S. missile development.

Holaday and Deputy Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles headed a panel of high defense officials who spoke at the morning session of the ASNE convention attended by some 400 editors from all parts of the country.

Quarles gave the editors a point by point explanation of President Eisenhower's plan to reorganize the defense high command.

"This streamlining of the command structure is a requirement of the atomic and missile age," Quarles said. "And I believe it has general approval of the military experts."

Quarles said many objections that have been raised to the plan are based on "misconceptions." Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, acting chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said he heartily agrees with the President's statement Thursday that there is no such thing as separate land, sea and air warfare with modern weapons.

He also said he agreed that there is an urgent need for achieving greater flexibility and alertness in the U.S. military organization.

The editors also heard a discussion on education.

Should Prepare Child Now for School

James H. Jones, Superintendent of Schools, announced today that all parents who have children who will be six years of age on or before December 31, 1958, should be getting the child ready to enter Hope Public Schools this fall.

1. Get the child's birth certificate blank.
2. Get the school health record started.
3. Carry the child's school health record to their family Physician and Dentist.
4. Any immunization record that the parent has for the child entering school should be brought to the Health Office so this can be recorded on the child's school health record.

The schedule for registration of the Pre-School children is as follows: Wednesdays and Fridays beginning April 23 through May.

Sources Believe U. S. Would Like a Debate

By WHITMAN BASSOW
United Press Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW (UP)—Russia announced today it is protesting to the United Nations Security Council against United States H-bomb flights.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko personally announced the U.N. protest at a Moscow news conference.

(Delegation sources at the United Nations headquarters in New York said the United States probably would welcome a Security Council debate on Russia's charges. This would be in line with American policy of never opposing U.N. discussion of any charge brought against the United States.)

In introducing a statement on the subject, Gromyko referred to a "report of the American news agency United Press," which described Strategic Air Command procedure in dealing with suspected radar targets.

"Playing With Fire"

The dispatch mentioned by Gromyko detailed Official Air Force Base, Neb., control center of the Strategic Air Command, was written by Frank H. Bartholomew, president of the United Press.

"As it appears from United Press reports confirmed by representatives of the U.S. Air Force Command, these flights are made in each instance as some obscure objects emerge on the American radar screen of the so-called early warning system, and which objects are mistaken by American operators for guided missiles or ballistic rockets," the Soviet foreign minister said.

Gromyko said: "These flights with American bombers constitute playing with fire—a game too dangerous for us to tolerate its continuance."

"This danger is also aggravated by the fact that the United States bombers with the same lethal load are known to fly round the clock over the territories of many West European states."

"All this testifies to the fact that several times humanity has been within a hairbreadth of a new war, which could break out instantaneously as a result of irresponsible or provocative action."

Hope Freshmen to Be Given Test

The Freshman Class of Hope High School will be given the Iowa Test of Educational Development next Tuesday and Wednesday, April 22 and 23.

This test, which was given to all students in high school last year, is used in counseling with students to find areas where they are strongest and to find where they need to make improvement.

As a result of this guidance, students should be able "to find themselves" early enough to prepare themselves for a profitable future.

New Justice Building Near Completion

By LLOYD HULBECK
United Press Staff Correspondent

LITTLE ROCK (UP)— Arkansas' new $1,500,000 Justice Building is mostly just a quiet maze of empty rooms and corridors right now, but soon it will be filled with the furnishings of six major state agencies and the noses which go along with their day-by-day operation.

Arkansas Gardner Lists Conservation Plants & Trees
(For Garden Club Members)

The fall issue of the Arkansas Gardner published by the State Federation of Garden Clubs urges everyone to know your list of conservation plants and trees. In 1953 the following list of flowers and trees were given as those to be rigidly practiced:

Trees: Redbud, Native dogwood, Native Holly and Poplar Tuplip; Plants: Bird's foot violet, Ladies' slipper, Jack-in-the-pulpit; Fringing: Orchids (both yellow and purple); Spider Lily, Wild Iris, Wild Phlox, Trilliums, Wild columbine.

So many of our wild flowers are reproduced by seed, should they be constantly picked or abused we would soon have no wild flowers at all.

Ex-Mayor Mann May Go to Denver

LITTLE ROCK (UP)— Former Mayor Woodrow W. Mann said Thursday he was "exploring" the possibility of moving to Denver to take a job in a new investment company.

Mann, a controversial figure in the mayor's office and an opponent of Gov. Orval E. Faubus, said he had not made up his mind about the move. Rather, he said he was merely exploring what appeared to be a fine business opportunity.

Mann was the last chief executive of the city under the mayor-aldermanic system, which was replaced last year by the city manager system. He has been in the insurance business for the past 10 years.

Finishing touches are being put on the building, and the Workmen's Compensation Commission is moving in. It will be joined next Monday by the Public Service Commission, then the Assessment Coordination Department, the Commerce Department, the Attorney General and the Supreme Court.

Work on the building, located just south of the capitol, started in the fall of 1956. It is to be formally opened June 3.

The justices move into a plush courtroom. It has thick carpeting and walls of medium brown wood paneling. At the west end of the room is the justices' modernistic bench. At the other is a small balcony for spectators. Lawyers appearing before the bar will stand in the "well" in the middle.

Justices Honored
Just outside the courtroom is a metal plaque bearing the names of all the Supreme Court Justices starting with Chief Justice Daniel Ringo, 1836-1844, down to Associate Justice Sam Robinson, who took office in 1951.

Like the justices bench, fighting of the courtroom is modernistic. Hourglass-shaped fixtures beam light to the floor.

Lighting in other rooms of the building is either natural or from recessed fluorescent fixtures. Offices of the Supreme Court justices are an improvement over their present drab quarters in the capitol. Located to the right and left of the main entrance, they are paneled heavily carpeted, and separated from noises of the hallways by outer offices for secretaries.

Other offices are in light pastel colors, and hallways are off-white.

Hearing Room's Bright
The hearing rooms for the Public Service Commission and the Workmen's Compensation Commission on the second floor. Each is bright with its combination of wood paneling and mait weave cloth walls, one in turquoise blue and the other in dusty rose.

An auxiliary courtroom off the foyer on the first floor also is in gay decor. It is paneled at each end, and the side walls are covered with green burlap.

The building is constructed of Batesville marble, a light cream in color, which the architects said in time will age to match the gray of the capitol building. Door frames and windows are of aluminum, to carry out the "found in Arkansas theme."

Original plans called for the Supreme Court's courtroom to be separate from the main building and connected by a glass-walled corridor. That plan had to be dropped when estimates of the cost exceeded the money available.

Hope of Future
"I hope within the not-too-distant future that the courtroom can be built as originally planned," said Secretary of State C. G. Hall a member of the Justice Building Commission. Architects estimate it can be added for about $300,000.

Hall, who is in charge of the capitol, said the present Supreme Court courtroom in the capitol will not be changed.

"It's going to be used for three purposes — as an auxiliary meeting room for boards and commissions, as a committee hearing room during legislative, and as an exhibit space," he said.

Used of the office space now occupied by the Supreme Court and attorney general is still "up in the air."

He said the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, probably will get part of the space on the second floor quarters of the Supreme Court, and the comptroller probably will get part of the first floor. The labor department also is supposed to move into the capitol.

McCaskill to Honor Aged Pair

Mr. and Mrs. David Stone

MCCASKILL COMMUNITY will help David Stone celebrate his 90th birthday Sunday, April 20, with an all-day potluck dinner at his home. It's also a celebration for Mrs. Stone who will be 90 years old on June 12. Mrs. Stone was born at Old Wallaceburg, north of Bleivins. Mr. Stone was born within one mile of where he and Mrs. Stone have lived for the past 68 years. They are in their 73rd year of marriage. DOROTHY DIX

Magnetic Personality Pulls Too Powerfully

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband and I are a young couple with two small children. We were recently transferred to a new town, where he holds an exceptionally good position for his age. We have a nice home and I guess you think by this time I shouldn't have a care in the world. However, I'm unhappy because I am without close friends. I've tried several ways to make friends but to no avail. We've met several nice couples, I've called and asked them over for an evening but they come up with obviously "faked" excuses. I had loads of friends in my home town, but then I was born and brought up there so I guess I couldn't miss. I was always popular with the crowd, so was my husband. This social deep freeze sure has me down. I have a closet full of lovely clothes and nowhere to go. CAMILLE R.

Dear Camille: Perhaps you're trying too hard. Wait for the people of your community to make overtures to you. Meanwhile, join church groups and let it be known that you're a willing worker for "Causes" — and I do mean working. I have yet to know of a friendly, pleasant co-operative woman without friends. So I know you'll make the grade if you'll just be a little patient.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm in love with my sister's ex-fiancee. She married someone else, and I started to go with her filled sweetheart. He's in love with me, too, but doesn't want anyone to know we're going out together. Do you think he's being fair? LIZZIE

Dear Lizzie: In a way, you did see his point. Having been "jilted" once, he doesn't want to risk a repetition. Until he's ready to tell the world he loves you, take his avowal with a big pinch of salt.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I live in a very nice community with wonderful people. There's only one neighbor I don't like too well because she's nosy. She's always running in, looking for dust. She raises the drapes, inspects the furniture, even looks behind pictures to find dirt. I'm a seamstress and can't keep the place immaculate always, but it is clean. If I say anything I'll lose her friendship. KATRINA

Dear Katrina: Hand her a dust cloth and tell her she might as well dust the table while she's inspecting it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Dave and I have been engaged three years. I love him dearly in spite of his quick temper and bad disposition. I did that is, until I met Ray two months ago. We met quite by accident but I am deeply impressed by his jovial good humor, and pleasant manner. Do you think I should return Dave's ring? GINNY

Dear Ginny: I think you've already determined in your own mind that Dave's ring goes back. You shouldn't have kept it three years under the circumstances. Of course, there's no guarantee that Ray is going to rush you off your feet, or even be interested in you, but Dave definitely is not the man to make you happy.

NOT READY FOR COLLEGE

"Too many young people are going to college who simply are not prepared to do college work." So says Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, a professor at College Park, Md. He says parents, schools and "our whole American society" must share the blame for the situation.

Air Force Base, Neb. control center of the Strategic Air Command, was written on April 7 by Frank H. Bartholomew, president of United Press.

Gromyko went on to say that the Soviet government had learned of U. S. flights over the Arctic toward Russia.

"As it appears from United Press reports, confirmed by representatives of the U. S. Air Force Command, these flights are made in each instance as some obscure objects emerge on the American radar screen of the so-called early warning system, and which objects are mistaken by American operators for guided missiles or ballistic rockets," the Soviet foreign minister said.

He said flights by the U. S. Strategic Air Command in Russia's direction "constitute playing with fire—a game too dangerous to tolerate."

An official summary of Gromyko's statement said "mankind has several times been poised on the edge of a new war, which could have broken out suddenly in consequence of the mistakes of the U. S. military command."

"The peoples have not even suspected what danger was hanging over the world," the summary said.

Gromyko added that the Soviet government was "reluctant" to believe President Eisenhower or his government would personally sanction such an Air Force policy.

"The world is now being placed in a position where an atomic war can break out over the heads of peoples in consequence of the slightest mistake by an American technician, miscalculation or a wrong conclusion by any American officer," Gromyko said.

The French Congo, which was the official name of the French colonies in Equatorial Africa, is now renamed A. E. F. (l'Afrique Equatoriale Francaise).

Marathon Is Shaping as 3-Way Fight

BOSTON (UP) — The 72nd annual Boston A.A. Marathon from suburban Hopkinton to downtown Boston Saturday shapes up as a three-way battle among an English teacher, a physical education student and a forester.

They are Johnny Kelley, Groton, Conn.; Franjo Mihalic, Yugoslavia and Eino Pulkkinen, Finland.

Though practically any of the field of more than 200 could spring an upset over the 26 mile, 385 yard route and capture the coveted laurel wreath, gold medal and bowl of beef stew, no unknown has one so since 1920.

That was when 18-year-old grocery clerk Johnny Miles came out of Sydney, N.S., to win in his first attempt at any marathon run.

The usual contingent of Japanese runners will be missing this year. They are training for the Far East Olympics slated to open in Tokyo next month.

Other foreign entries include Bok Suk Shim, a Korean exchange student now attending Brigham Young University, Mexicans Pedro Peralta, Pedro Alvarado and Luis Buendia. Some 30 Canadians also are entered, which brings to mind the fact that Canadians have won this hill and have run eight times previously.

Foreigners have won 20 times in the history of the run, and had won 11 straight times before Kelley brought the crown back to the United States last year.

Warns Against Stay-awake Pills
CHICAGO (UP) — The National Safety Council warned today that stay-awake pills can be even more dangerous for motorists "than mixing alcohol and gasoline."

The council, in its magazine, "Traffic Safety," said the main dangers of the "increasingly popular drug amphetamine" are that it may eliminate the warning signal of fatigue in the driver, may become habit forming and may cause undesirable circulatory effects.

Amphetamine is a heart and nervous system stimulant that goes under such trade names as "benzadrine" and "dextadrine," the council said.

The drug also has a host of nicknames like "pep pills," "go-go pills" and "speed pills."

The council said the drug can be a serious danger when abused because it makes people who have never had to struggle to keep awake feel that they can't sleep.

Amphetamine gives no warning of its effects.

PURSE SWINGS

Weaver, Collins Lead Kentucky Golf Play

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP) — A hungry pair of pros, one a Texan who plays the British "punch" game and the other a "soms" times' journeyman, today led the field into the second round of the Kentucky Derby Open golf tournament.

Bert Weaver, a promising youngster from Beaumont, Tex., and Bill Collins of Crossinger, N.Y., paced the pack in the opening round of the $20,000 affair Thursday with record-tying seven-under par 65's.

One stroke back at 66 was Chick Harbert, the ex-PGA champ from Northville, Mich., who put 33's back-to-back over the hilly Seneca Golf Club course.

Knotted at 67 were Dow Finsterwald, the reliable circuit rider from Athens, Ohio; Tony Lama, of Napa, Calif.; and Tommy Bolt, Chattanooga, Tenn.

At 68 were Paul Harney, Bill Nary, Ed (Porky) Oliver, Tom Nierste, Doug Ford and Gary Player.

Manager Bob Scheffing used three pitchers, starter Glenn Hobbie winding up with the victory. John Goryl homered off loser Lindy McDaniel. Stan Musial had a homer and a single, thereby breaking Mel Ott's National League record for the total bases. Musial's two hits increased his total bases to 5,046. Ott's record was 5,041.

Rookie third baseman Jim Davenport rapped out four hits in the Giants' triumph over Don Newcombe of the Dodgers. Newcombe, charged with San Francisco's first five runs, left the game in the fourth because of a pulled muscle in his back. Southpaw Johnny Antonelli started for the Giants but the victory went to Curt Barclay, who relieved him in the fourth. Gino Cimoli homered for the Dodgers while Bob Schmidt connected for the Giants.

The game drew only 12,520 fans at Seals Stadium compared with the crowds of better than 20,000 which witnessed the first two encounters.

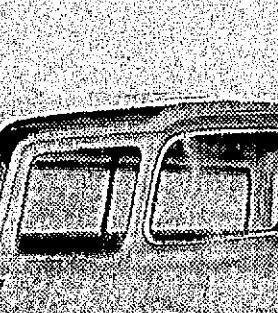

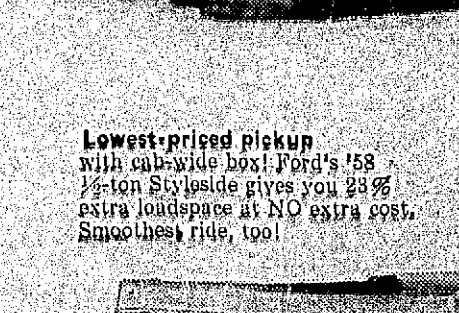

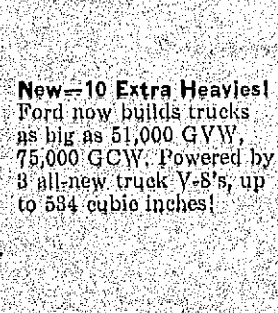

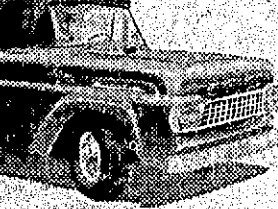

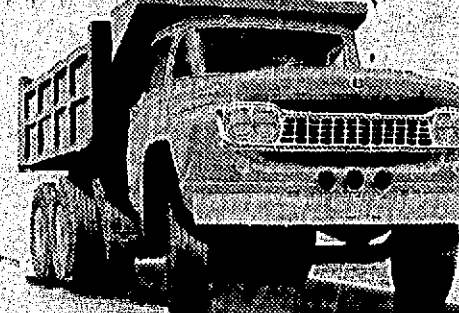

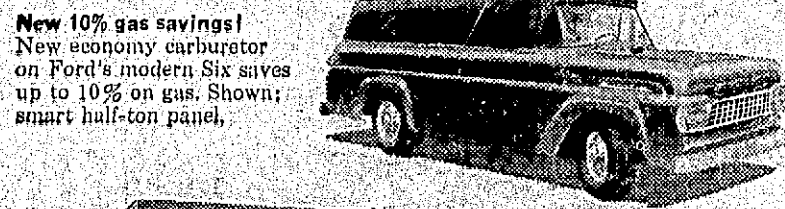

Eddie Mathews continued his spectacular slugging for the Braves, driving in five of their runs against the Pirates with his third and fourth homers of the year. Lew Burdette, meanwhile, held the Pirates to seven hits in chalking up his first victory.

Cerv's homer, nursed a 2-1 lead until the ninth when singles by Roger Maris and Preston Ward along with Vernon's two-out double proved his downfall. Rookie Jim (Mudcat) Grant went the route for Cleveland and yielded eight hits.

Second Victory
Dale Long's sacrifice fly, following singles by Walt Moryn and Bobby Thomson in the eighth inning, scored the run that gave the Cubs their second victory in a row over the Cards, Chicago manager.

Mickey Vernon's pinch double drove in the two runs in the ninth that gave the Indians their first victory of the season over the A's. Duke Maas, aided by Bob

Cool Western Winds Snap a Warm Wave

By UNITED PRESS

Cool winds from the West were expected to snap a record April heat wave in the Midwest today, but continued warm weather in New England brought a threat of flooding.

Palm skies and a bright sun sent the mercury into the 60s throughout the Midwest Thursday, smothering heat records to the date of a number of cities.

A high of 84 in Chicago topped a record that had stood since 1896. Lansing, Mich., had a high of 83 for a new heat mark for so early in the season. An 83 in Des Moines, set a record for the date.

The Chicago Weather Bureau said that Thursday was the fifth straight day readings had aver-

Auto Insurance Hike Rejected

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Arkansas Commissioner Harvey Combs rejected a request for an 11 per cent increase in automobile property damage insurance rates again Wednesday.

Combs turned down the request in January because the increase granted in April last year had not been in effect long enough to determine if the new rates would be justified. He said the increase would have cost Arkansas car owners about $1,178,497 more a year.

It was requested by the National Automobile Underwriters Association. Combs last week also turned down a request for a 26 per cent increase on automobile liability insurance.

PSC to Hear Two Utility Cases

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Arkansas Public Service Commission will hear two cases at Flippin next Thursday.

One is a request by the Northern Arkansas Telephone Company for authority to borrow $17,000 from the federal Rural Electrification Administration. The other is a private company at the Flippin Municipal Airport.

The commission is to hold their first general meeting in its new offices in the Justice Building on a request of the Arkansas Power and Light Company and Woodruff Electrical Co-operative Corporation for permission to exchange service areas in Woodruff county. On May 20, the commission will hear a request of the Crossett Public Utilities Company for permission to expand its service.

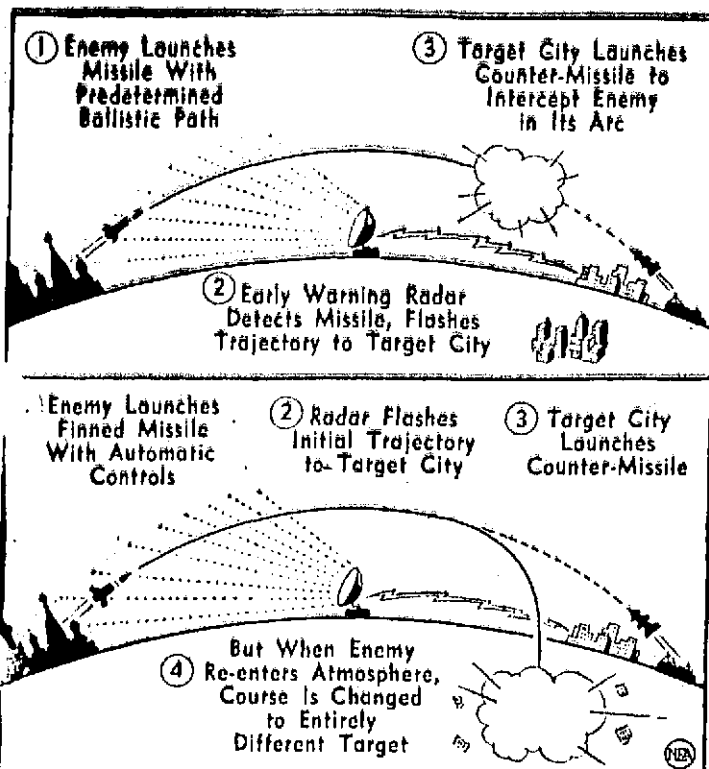

aged 10 or more degrees above normal. But more seasonal temperatures were expected in the Windy City today with the high expected to be in the 60s.

A storm in the Pacific Northwest sent the cooler air sweeping across the northern Plains and into the upper Midwest during the night.

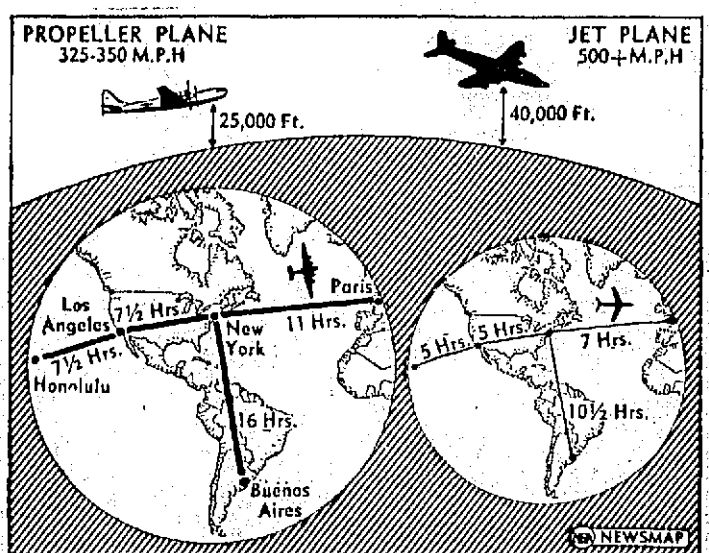

Gale warnings were continued along the Washington Coast as high winds lashed the cool air into the Northwest and across the Continental Divide, and south into sections of Nevada and Utah.

Wind gusts up to 52 m.p.h. whipped through from Montana and Idaho.

The cooler air touched off showers during the night in the central Plains, and thunderstorms hit central Texas. At least one tornado apparently touched ground in the plains of Texas Thursday, but there were no reports of damage or injuries.

THRUST-COUNTERTHRUST—Our main defense against Russian intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) may eventually rest on the Nike-Zeus system. With a 10 to 30-minute warning, the defensive rockets would be launched to intercept the enemy missile in its predetermined ballistic arc (see upper panel). Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, is reported to be in favor of an all-out drive for protecting the U.S. with Nike-Zeus by 1961. But a warning against investing heavily in such a system comes from another quarter. Maj. Gen. John W. Sessums Jr., vice commander of the Air Research and Development Command, urges research into defenses against "more sophisticated ballistic missiles" yet to come. He says that the Russians, by adding fins and automatic controls, could make their missile travel a complex course once it re-entered the atmosphere, eluding the defense (lower panel).

THIS SHRINKING WORLD—Man will take a big step forward when the commercial jet age gets under way late this year or early in 1959. Big airliners like the Boeing 707 and Douglas DC-8 will shrink the world by some 40 per cent (see Newchart above). CAA certification tests on the new jets are expected to start soon and airlines are ready to train flight crews. Big problem remaining: building longer runways.

News on the American Business Front

By UNITED PRESS

Retail trade this week was down sharply from the similar 1957 calendar period—the Palm Sunday week—but was slightly ahead of the similar post-Easter week, Dun & Bradstreet reported. Best sellers this week were men's and women's summer apparel outdoor furniture and television sets.

Texas set its crude oil production allowable for May at 2,394,537 barrels daily of 42.537 barrels below the current allowable. The action was aimed at bringing supply and demand back into balance.

American businessmen in 1958 will cut their spending on new plants and equipment 12 per cent below the 1957 level, but will increase their research and development expenditures 14 per cent, McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. said. The company's 11th annual survey of business plans also showed expectations of 20 per cent higher sales by 1961 after a "small decline during 1958."

The Securities & Exchange Commission estimated that the net working capital of U.S. corporations, except for banks and insurance companies, climbed to a record $108,400,000,000 at the end of 1957. The commission said an increase over the year of five billion dollars reflected a rise in current assets of $3,300,000,000 and a dip in current liabilities of 700 million dollars.

Another El Dorado Man Burns to Death

EL DORADO (UP)—A second man burned in a flash fire Saturday at the American Oil Company's plant near here died today. He was Paxton Elliot, 35, assistant fire chief for the company. Herman Floyd, 42, one of two welders working on the pipeline job at the time of the fire, died late Wednesday. A second welder, D. P. Hammett, 22, was less seriously burned and was reported in fair condition at a hospital here today.

Churches, synagogues and temples in the U. S. have property and endowments valued at an estimated $12,200,000,000.

ver's nostrils revealed the politician's real thoughts. He drummed his fingers on the desk before him, suddenly broke into a smile.

"I guess I underestimated you, Jeff," he said. "You've got more guts than I gave you credit for." He nodded. "You win. Thirty thousand; it is—and no hard feelings."

Faubus Is Visitor in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas toured the dock and harbor facilities here today and expressed hope of connecting their oil-producing state with the inland waterway transportation system of Louisiana.

With the Arkansas governor were his executive secretary Arvid Sikes and State Revenue Commissioner J. Orville Cheney. They were members of a party of good will ambassadors from Arkansas.

They said a 350-mile length of the silted and sandbar-packed Arkansas River will be made navigable for large oil barges which can enter from Oklahoma to the Mississippi River.

Development of a 250-mile stretch of the Arkansas River would make Little Rock an active inland port.

The governor and his aides were guests aboard the Lock Be hold, The Good Neighbor.

Japs Hope to See Near Total Eclipse

TOKYO (UP)—Japanese scientists hoped today for more clear weather Saturday for effective observation of the 80 to 90 per cent annular eclipse of the sun.

The eclipse will start around 11 a.m. in Japan and last for about three and a half hours.

The Tokyo Astronomical Observatory and Seismological Institutes have sent observation parties to Hachioji Island, 130 miles south of Tokyo.

Darkness will envelop Hachioji Island for about six minutes. A ball game between the Hanshin Tigers and the Chunichi Dragons, a Nagoya has been delayed half an hour because of the eclipse.

Goals do not really eat cans but it is true that they will lick or chew anything which may contain minerals.

Unit Rule Out for Two Young Democ

FAYETTEVILLE (UP)—John Harkey, treasurer of the Young Democrats at the University of Arkansas said Wednesday that at least two delegates to the organization's state convention at Little Rock Saturday will refuse to abide by the unit rule which requires all delegates to vote as the majority votes.

Harkey is a member of the liberal element of the University Young Democrats, which has boosted Jim Brandon of Little Rock for state president.

Harkey said the move was influenced by the fact the meeting at which the unit rule was adopted was not set the two days in advance as required by the club's constitution.

He said members also were considering the "forced resignation of Milas Hales as president of the club and the arbitrary and illegal appointment of his successor—Gene Ruff of Helena—to lead the delegation to Little Rock."

"In view of these facts," said Harkey, "at least two delegates no longer consider themselves bound to vote according to this rule and will cast their votes as they see fit at Little Rock."

Hale was asked to resign Tuesday because he was on scholastic probation.

"Sodbusters," snorted Denver. "This is cattle country and we're better off without these piddling little sodbusters making trouble."

"But you brought them in, Mike. You sold them the land."

Denver shrugged indifferently. "Man makes a mistake now and then."

"You've made one right now, Mike," said Eads tauntingly. "You've gone just a little too far. You think you've got enough votes to kick me out of the bank, you go ahead and do it. Call your stock. Vote your stock."

"A showdown?" You'll lose, Eads."

"Then I'll lose, but I'll not be a party to any of your dirty schemes."

Eads clumped down the stairs and out of the saloon. Denver, his face red, took a key out of his pocket and unlocked the center drawer of his desk. He pulled out a sheet of paper on which were written the names of the stockholders of the Barkerville State Bank and the amount of the stock owned by each.

"I'm safe by 100 shares," he muttered. "even if Alderton loses his wife's shares."

He had scarcely muttered the thought that the owner of 100 shares entered the saloon and headed directly for the balcony stairs. Denver was still studying the list of shareholders when Jeff Alderton appeared before him.

"Jeff," exclaimed Denver, startled a little. "I was just thinking about you."

"Good," snapped Alderton, "because I've been thinking about you, Lily tells me you've taken over the bank."

"You two still at it?" granted Denver. "Thought you'd made up by now."

"Don't get me off the subject," Alderton said hotly. "There're some things we're going to have out and we'll take them up one at a time."

"Sure, sure, whatever you say. I'm a man who believes in laying all the cards on the table," Denver had never in his life laid his cards on the table.

"Item one—have you taken over the bank?"

"I've got the votes to do it. If I want to," said Denver, thinking even then of Alderton's 100 shares with a par value of $100 a share.

hands, just to help you out."

The carelessness of Denver's tone created a sudden suspicion in Alderton. "At how much?"

"Forty, all right $50 a share."

"Par's a hundred."

"They're not worth a hundred the way things have been going with the bank," Denver exhaled heavily. "You may as well know; I've got to let Eads go. He hasn't been running thing properly. Made a lot of bad loans. Fifty dollars a share is more than the stock's worth, but to help you out, I'll say sixty, Jeff."

"A hundred? The stock's always paid a dividend."

"Won't this year. All right, hang onto the stock, Jeff. I only thought..." He shrugged. "What else is bothering you?"

"Lily knows about the rustling. It's got to stop."

"Fine, I never liked that business anyway. It was just to help you."

"Help me!" Alderton suddenly exploded. "Mike, you've helped me so much that you've just about ruined me."

"That's no way to think, Jeff. You'll make it, all right. One more swing around the state—I can't afford it."

"You can't afford not to, my boy. I've been getting reports neck and neck with the Old Man and a little more here and there'll do it."

"I haven't got the money, Mike."

"The bank'll lend it to you. Of course, you'll have to sign a paper on your own ranch, but that's just a formality. Stop in tomorrow sometime and I'll fix it up." He suddenly frowned. "That is it I'm running the bank. Eads is forcing a showdown. Wants a stockholders' meeting to see if I have enough votes to give me control."

"Do you have the votes?"

"I think so. Of course Lily'll probably vote her shares against me now, but I think I'm all right without it. Just to be on the safe side, you'd better give me your proxy for the shares you own."

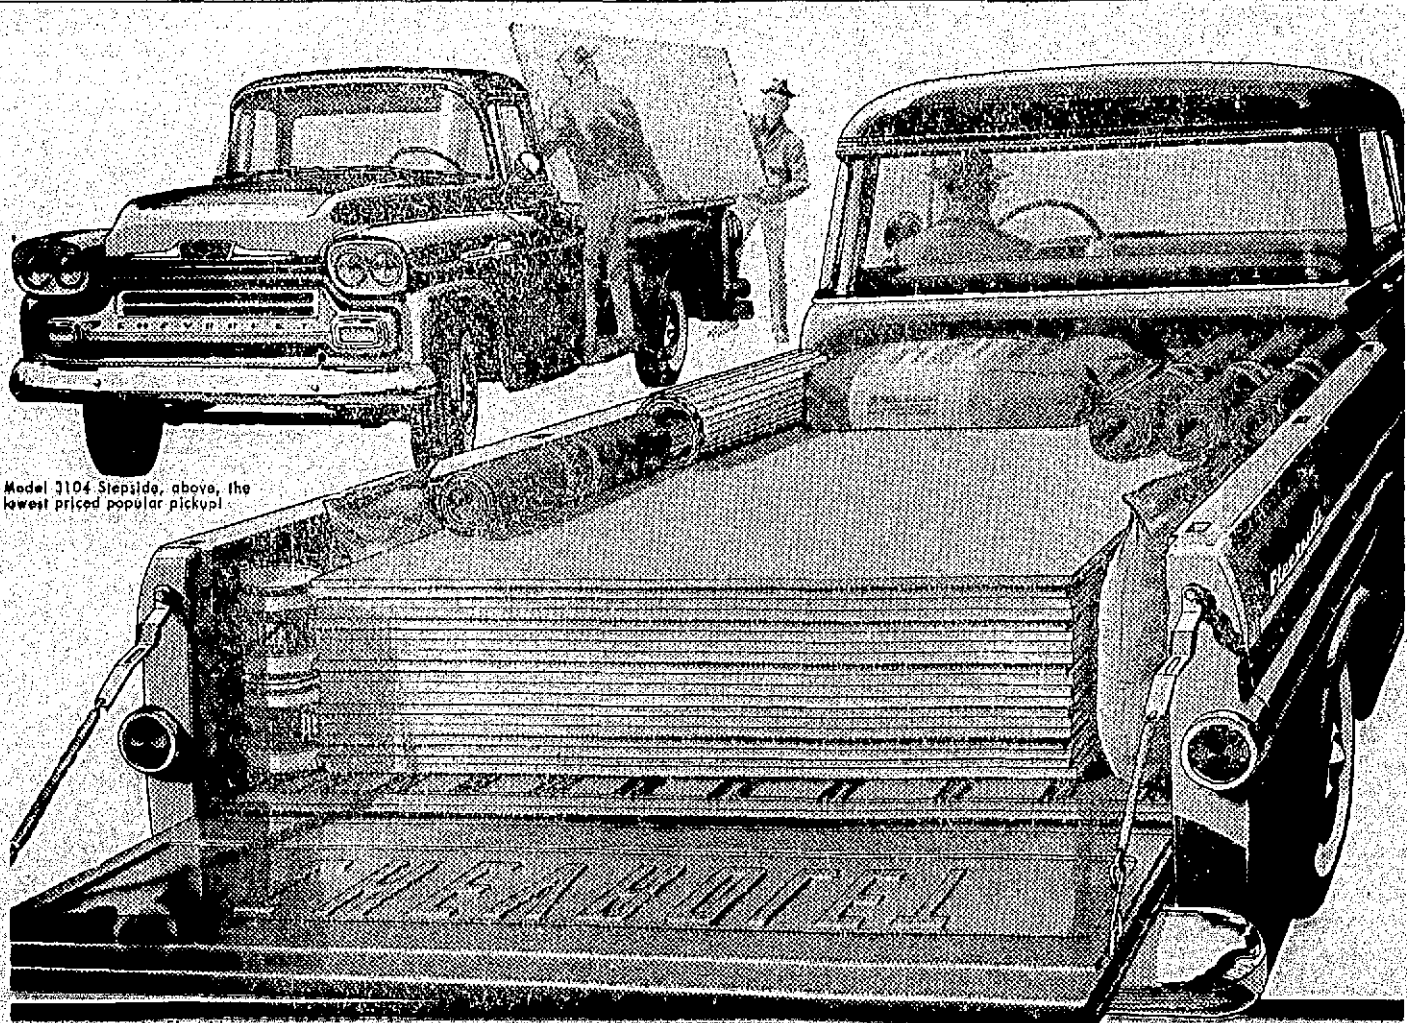

He pulled out a drawer of the desk, rummaged a bit and brought out a printed form. "Here, just sign this, in care."

"Mum," mused Alderton. "Maybe Eads would like to buy my shares?"

Denver stabbed a forefinger at Alderton. "I'm warning you, Jeff, you're out of line."

"That's thousands!" Alderton said suddenly. "Enough to pay for the last swing around the circuit."
